

Use case	Description
UC-1: Create an account	A user is prompted to input their first and last name, email, password, date of birth, and gender. If the registration is successful, the user is presented with the create a profile page.
UC-2: Login	The user enters their email and password. User is then taken to homepage if login is successful
UC-3: Create a profile	The user is prompted to upload a profile picture, enter a biography, location, sexual preference, and choose three hobbies that they are interested in. Profile is then created and then stored into the database
UC-4: Display potential matches	On the homepage, potential matches are generated. These matches are determined by the users sexual preferences and hobbies.
UC-5: View match profile	User can click on the profile displayed and see more details about their match
UC-6: Accept/Reject matches	User has the option to accept or reject matches. If the user accepts a match, a match request is sent to the potential match.
UC-7: Respond to match requests	If another user (potential match) has accepted the user, they can respond to a match request by either accepting the potential match request or by rejecting it.
UC-8: Message matched users	If two users have mutually sent an accept request, allow the users to message each other.		